The Monroe Doctrine. The implied invitation to European nations to interfere in Cuban affairs contained in the late message of President Grant seems not to have attracted as much attention as it ought to have done.

We should not like to be considered excitable and inclined to raise a row where there is no occasion and no reason for it. Certainly there was a time when the people of this nation were extremely jealous a hand in the politics of this continent. Their feelings found expression in Mr. Monnoe's indignant objection to anything that seemed in American affairs.

General GRANT's message certainly surrendered this position in inviting such interferencin Cuban affairs. Times have changed, and so may the views of the American people have changed. It would be a great departure from the policy of our forefathers. Washington spoke for them in advising the nation to avoid all entangling alliances with foreign nations, and Mr. Mos-ROE but a few years afterwards as a corollary of this wise policy proclaimed the national along with order and dignity. All the rule of resistance to all foreign interference with American politics.

It is possible that this nation may by its ambition, if not the force of circumstances by which it may be surrounded, break loose from the wise precautionary policy of our ancestors, and embark on that broad sea of Diplomacy which will require us to abandon the wisdom of WASHINGTON and MONROE; and as we mean to take a hand in European politics to grant reciprocal rights of intervention to European nations on this side the Atlantic. If the American people have made up their minds to this, very well. But they had better think twice before they do it.

President GRANT, with his narrow-gauge, vulgar philosophy, views the troubles of the southern States as altogether growing out of the cruelties of the whites towards the blacks. He recommends the sending of a committee down to Louisiana to ascertain "whether the alleged wrongs to colored "citizens for political purposes were real or "the occasion." The sending committees down to the States to see how they are getting along resembles those terrible commissions sent out by the French Assembly to the depart ments-sent out to accuse and to punish rather than promote the ends of justice.

While the ruthless Republican party had all the power and felt so strong that they did not fear the loss of power, the committeemen were like the commissioners of the French Assembly. They were mere partisans of B. M. Cox, late sheriff of Prince Edward determined to make reports that would county. strengthen republicanism and lead to further punishments of the poor southern people because they would not turn Republicans. We are glad now to see a statement that | tection to crops.

may be the committees sent to see things in the South will be moved by somewhat modified motives. It is said if one is sent by the House of Representatives Mr. Blaine pediency of establishing a separate prison or will select gentlemen who are reelected to the next Congress, and who will feel some responsibility with regard to the future the Code so as to require the appointment of peace of the country and the fair adminis- judges of election upon the recommendation

This would be excellent. Mr. Blaine has some hope of the heaven of politics-i, e., promotion in the near future-and he is not willing to sacrifice his prospects to the sor- expediency of utilizing a portion of the pordid and brutal god of Republicanism. Appointed by him a committee will hardly go into committee-rooms; also, as to what addown to the Gulf to put a few questions to for use of committees, &c. negroes, and carpet-baggers, and scalawags, and return to Washington with recommendations intended to defeat justice and in- Virginia. crease the woes of the South. The South has been treated more like a penal colony than a part of a republic. If Congress cannot improve its administration of southern affairs it would better put it up at auction to the lowest bidder, as penitentiaries are sometimes, to be worked and governed by contract. It would be an improve ment of affairs. We would as soon see some one else as General GRANT the superintendent of the southern penitentiary. BLED HAR-MAN would be an angel of mercy compared

But we hope for better things. A patent break will soon be put upon the wheels of Government to impede its downward way a new heaven and a new earth of politics. The Government itself will be rescued from the downward course, and only the Repub- sand dollars for that purpose. lican party will reach the terminus to which they have been so rapidly carrying the whole country. We conjecture that General GRANT will jump off the train and disable himself for life; but will in this way escape the fires as to make the senior magistrate for each maof the terminus. The Returning Board of Louisiana, it was anticipated, would nullify the Conservative majority " by book or by crook." It is said that in De Soto parish the supervisor had handed over the returns to some person who declines to give them up unless he is paid $1,000. In several telegrams of late it has been stated that the Returning Board would do what it could to defeat the Conservatives. The holding back for an indefinite time a of foreign nations with regard to their taking sufficient number of Conservative returns to insure a Republican majority in the Legislature is one plau.

The Board of Supervisors in Mississipple which found that a negro clerk of an important court had never given a bond for the faithful performance of his official duties, was composed of negroes. It was the suspension from office of this person and others like him that led to the little war at Vicks burg connived at by AMES. AMES is a dog.
